

Oxford

Leiden

Geneva

Paris

Prague

Helsinki

Krakow

Barcelona

Munich

St Andrews

Lisbon

Madrid

EVROPAEUM SUMMER SCHOOL – SPEAKERS – BIOGRAPHICAL NOTES

Populism and Anti-Politics: Is Democracy in Crisis ?

Professor SUSANA AGUILAR FERNÁNDEZ is Professor at the Faculty of Political Science and Sociology, Complutense University, Madrid. She received her PhD in Political Science and Sociology from UCM and the Center for Advanced Study in the Social Sciences (CEACS) of the Juan March Institute. She has served as an Advisor to the United Nations, and taught at different universities throughout Europe and Latin America. In 2014, she received the Award for Better Research from the Journal of Forestry Research, and has published extensively in JCR journals on a wide range of topics, including women's political representation, social movements and collective action, environmental politics, and the European Union.

Professor EVA ANDUIZA PEREA is an Associate Professor of Political Science, Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, Spain. She was previously Associate Professor of Political Science at the University of Murcia and the University of Salamanca. She holds a PhD in Political and Social Sciences from the European University Institute, Florence. She received the IX Stein Rokkan Prize for Comparative Research in the Social Sciences, ISSC-ECP (2000). Her main fields of research are political participation, political attitudes and elections. Her interests also include epistemological and methodological issues in social science research. She was the principal investigator of the project Political Participation and the Internet in Spain on how new media are affecting political involvement, participation and mobilisation. She is also the recipient of the ICREA Academia five-year research award (2016) from the Catalan Institution for Research and Advanced Studies.

Professor ANTHONY ARBLASTER was Reader in Politics at the University of Sheffield, UK, where he taught political theory and ideologies from 1970 until 2010. He is the author of The Rise and Decline of Western Liberalism (1984), Democracy (1987, 2002), Viva la Libertà! Politics in Opera (1992), and many articles. He is a reviewer for Opera Now (London).

Dr MATEO BALLESTER is an Associate Professor at the Political Science and Administration Department of the Complutense University of Madrid. He received his PhD in Political Science from UCM and an MA in History of Ideas from the University of Oslo. His research interests include the fields of theory and history of power, history of national identity, nationalism, and more specifically the topics of sub-state nationalisms, self-determination, and inclusiveness in multi-ethnic/multi-national states. He has explored these topics in conferences throughout Europe, including Oxford, Sorbonne, Oslo and LSE.

Professor ENRIQUE BARÓN CRESPO is an experienced politician, economist, and lawyer. He was a Member of the European Parliament (1986-2009), where he was Vice-president (1987-89), President (1989-92), President of the Foreign Affairs Commission (1992-94), and Chair of the Party of European Socialists Group (1999-2004). He was a human rights lawyer during Franco's dictatorship (1970-77), later a deputy of the Spanish Socialist Workers' Party (PSOE) and a Minister in the Spanish Government which achieved the adhesion to the European Community (1982-85). PhD in Law and Economics (Universidad Complutense, ICADE - Madrid) & Diplômé Ecole Supérieure des Sciences Economiques et Commerciales (ESSEC). He has taught at the Sorbonne and Sciences Po (Paris) and ESSEC Business School, Verona (Italy), Boston University, Harvard University, Miami University, and HEC Lausanne (Switzerland). He is Jean Monnet Chair ad honorem at the Universidad de Castilla la Mancha, President of the Former Members Association of the European Parliament, President of Honour of the International Yehudi Menuhin Foundation, and the European Foundation for the Information Society. He is Vice-President of the Istituto Internazionale per l'Opera e la Poesia di Verona-UNESCO, and member of the Board of Trustees of Friends of Europe and Notre Europe. He is the author of Europe at the Dawn of the Millennium; Europa, pasión y razón; a handbook on The Treaty of Lisbon & Charter of Fundamental Rights; Más Europa Unida; Unida!, and La era del federalismo.

Professor CÉSAR DÍAZ-CARRERA is Professor of Political Science at Complutense University, Madrid, where he founded the Public Leadership studies course. He is a member of the Jean Monnet Centre of Excellency, the inaugural President of IDEC (Institute for the Development of Creativity) and former General Director of the Center for Research and European Training (CIFE). He obtained his PhD in Modern English Philology (with Honours) from Complutense University, Madrid, a Master of Arts in Comparative Literature and Political Science from the University of Washington, and a Master in Constitutional Law and Political Science, from the Centre for Constitutional Studies, Madrid. He was Visiting Scholar at the Center of Governmental Studies at the University of California, Berkeley (2001), and Real Colegio Complutense Fellow at Harvard University (2011-12), where he lectured on creative leadership. He served as Professor and Director of Studies at the Collège Universitaire d'Études Fédéralistes, Aosta, Italy, and was a member of the Strategic Leadership Group, Templeton College, University of Oxford. For a number of years he has served as member of the Board of the European Journal of Political Research (Netherlands). In 1989 he received the International Café Marfil Poetry Award for his book Poemas Agrestes. His latest book is El coraje de liderar. La democracia amenazada en el S. XXI (The Courage to Lead: Democracy Threatened in the 21st Century, edited with Antonio Natera).

Professor DAVID W. ELLWOOD is a former Associate Professor of Contemporary International History at the University of Bologna (until November 2012), has served as president of the International Association for Media and History (1996-2002), and is currently a Senior Adjunct Professor of European and Eurasian Studies at the School of Advanced International Studies, Johns Hopkins University. He gained his PhD in Italian studies at the University of Reading and has a long list of publications, including The Shock of America: Europe and the Challenge of the Century; The Movies as History: Visions of the 20th Century; Hollywood in Europe: Experiences of a Cultural Hegemony; Rebuilding Europe: The U.S. and the Reconstruction of Western Europe; Hollywood in Europa: industria, politica, pubblico del cinema 1945-1960, with G. Brunetta; Italy 1943-45: The Politics of Liberation, and is also a frequent contributor of articles and reviews to academic journals, policy forums, and news outlets.

Dr PAUL FLATHER is founding Secretary-General of the Europaeum, an association of leading European Universities, and Fellow of Mansfield College, Oxford, where he is head of the Senior Common Room. He studied at Balliol College, Oxford, where he also obtained his DPhil (PhD) and has taught and lectured at Oxford and many other universities throughout Europe and India. He was founding Secretary-General of the Central European University (1990-1994), originally set up in Budapest, Prague, and Warsaw by George Soros, where he taught and served in the Senate, and then Director of International and External Affairs for Oxford University (1994-2000). He is a former Fellow of Corpus Christi (1994-2000). He has worked at the BBC, Times Newspapers, and served as Deputy Editor of the New Statesman. His research work is on Indian political development since Independence. He worked with dissident movements in Central Europe in the 1980s, and has worked with cultural and race equality groups in the UK for over 30 years. He was an elected member of the London Council in the 1980s (chairing its committee on post-school education 1986-1990, with an annual budget of £360m). He has chaired the Noon Education Foundation since 2000, and is on the board of The Round Table, Commonwealth Journal of International Affairs. He was the consultant of the first EU-India co-operation report in 1994 which led directly to a €40m academic programme from 1997.

Dr FABIO GARCIA LUPATO is an Assistant Professor at the Complutense University of Madrid and Director of the Intelligence Unit of the Thinking Heads Group at the Università degli Studi of Siena. He gained his PhD in Comparative and European Politics from the University of Siena (2008). He was Visiting Researcher at the Centre for Advanced Studies in the Social Sciences, Juan March Foundation, Madrid (2007), and at ZA-Eurolab, University of Cologne (2006), and Marie Curie Fellow, Center for European Studies, Bradford University (2004). His research and publications focus on European politics, political competition, and parliamentary politics.

Professor CARMEN GONZÁLES ENRÍQUEZ is doctor in Political Science and Sociology, Professor at the UNED's Department on Political Science and Senior Analyst on Immigration at the Real Instituto Elcano. She has directed various research projects on migration as "Immigration and representation of workers' interests", "Immigration and political parties system in Spain. A comparative perspective", "Preventing ethnic conflict in immigrants' neighbourhoods" or "The challenge of immigration in Spain-Morocco relationship" and has taken part in several European research projects on immigration dealing with the trafficking of human beings, irregular migration or civic participation of immigrants. Among her most recent works is the monographic issue on migration policies in Southern Europe in the European Journal of Migration and Law 11/2009 (edited with Anna Triandafyllidou).

Dr WILHELM HOFMEISTER is the Director of the Office of the Konrad Adenauer Foundation (KAF) for Spain and Portugal in Madrid. He has worked for the KAF since 1988, inter alia serving as its representative in Chile, as its deputy-director for Africa, Asia, and Latin America, as its Research Director in Brazil, and as Director of the KAF regional programme 'Political Dialogue with Asia', which is based in Singapore. Dr Hofmeister studied Political Science, Sociology, and History at the University of Mainz, Germany, and has published numerous articles and volumes on political systems and developments in Asia and Latin America, EU foreign relations, and international cooperation.

Dr MIRA MILOSEVICH is Senior Analyst at the Elcano Royal Institute for Russia and Euroasia and Associate Professor of History of International Relations at IE University. She has a PhD in European Studies from Madrid's Universidad Complutense, and a Diploma in Advanced Studies in the area of International Public Law and International Relations from the same university. She has authored three books: Breve historia de la Revolución Rusa (2017), Los tristes y los héroes: Historias de nacionalistas serbios (2000), and El trigo de la guerra: Nacionalismo y violencia en Kosovo (2001), and her areas of research are Russia, Eurasia, Eastern Europe and the Balkans, with focus on security and defence policy, political history, the processes of transition to democracy in post-communist countries, and their relationship with the EU and NATO.

Professor MANUEL MUÑIZ is the Dean of the School of International Relations at IE University, where he is Founding Director of its Center for the Governance of Change, and Director of the Program on Transatlantic Relations at Harvard University's Weatherhead Center for International Affairs (2016-17). His research interests fall within the fields of innovation and disruption, geopolitics, and regional and global governance. He has undertaken research on processes of cooperation and integration in Europe and the North Atlantic with a view to understanding how states tackle interdependence and complexity. He is a local affiliate of the Minda de Gunzburg Center for European Studies and an elected member of the Alumni Board of Directors of the Kennedy School of Government, both at Harvard University. He is Chair in Global Leadership at the Rafael del Pino Foundation. He holds a JD (Law) from the Complutense University in Madrid, an MSc in Finance from the Instituto de Estudios Bursátiles, a Master in Public Administration from the Kennedy School of Government, and a DPhil (PhD) in International Relations from the University of Oxford. He is also a recipient of a number of awards and recognitions including the Trilateral Commission's David Rockefeller Fellowship and the Atlantic Council's Millennium Fellowship.

Professor DIEGO RUBIO is Professor of Applied History and Global Governance at the IE School of International Relations and Executive Director of the Center for the Governance of Change. He is also Policy Advisor to the Ibero-American General Secretariat (SEGIB), Co-Director of the Madariaga Series at the University of Oxford, and Associate Researcher at the British Academy of Higher Education. Before moving to Madrid, he worked as Lecturer and Junior Research Fellow at the University of Oxford and as a Strategic Advisor to the United Nations. As visiting scholar, he lectured at a number of universities, including Paris-IV Sorbonne, Columbia, and the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy. His research focuses on international and applied history, political thought, societal and institutional change, and education. He is particularly interested in post-truth politics and how our perceptions of time and progress affect political behaviour. As an applied historian, his aim is to increase the time-horizon and effectiveness of policy and decision-making through a better use of historical data and experience. As an educationalist, he has extensively reflected on the role of the humanities in 21st century governance, education, innovation, economy and society.

Dr ANDRÉS SANTANA LEITNER is PhD in Political Science by the Universitat Pompeu Fabra (UPF), PhD Member of the Juan March Institute (IJM), Master of Arts in Sociology by the IJM, Postgraduate (with merits) in Social Science Data Analysis by University of Essex, Graduate in Economics and Business by UPF, Graduate in Linguistics by Universitat de Barcelona and Graduate in Romance Philology by UB. He is accredited by the ANECA as Profesor Contratado Doctor, Profesor Ayudante Docto" and Profesor Contratado de Universidad Privada. He also teaches in Université de Bordeaux and Universidad Pablo de Olavide, and is member of the evaluators team of the DGICT of the Spanish Ministry of Economy. He has been evaluator of the ANEP and of the regional evaluating agencies of Catalonia and Aragon. He has been consultant of My Word (data analysis); Analytika (political situation); and the Bolivian Vice-Ministry of Foreign Affairs (strategic analysis). He has taught in the Universidad Carlos III de Madrid, Universitat Oberta de Catalunya, Institute of Educational Studies, and numerous Bolivian universities. He is currently a member of the Political Science Department of the Universidad Autónoma de Madrid (UAM).

Professor FERNANDO VALLESPÍN OÑA is a Professor of Political Science at the Universidad Autónoma de Madrid, where he has developed most of his academic career. He has held the position of Vice-Rector of Culture, has directed the Department of Political Science and International Relations and the Centro de Teoría Política at the same University. He's also been a postdoctoral Fulbright researcher at Harvard University, and has been visiting professor at the universities of Frankfurt, Heidelberg, Veracruz and Malaysia. He has published several books and over one hundred academic papers and chapters on renowned political science publications – both in Spain and other countries. Additionally, he has been President of the Centro de Investigaciones Sociológicas (CIS) between May 2004 and May 2008, Academic Director of the Fundación Ortega-Marañón (2012-2015), President of the AECPA (2013-2015) and member of IPSA's Executive Council (2014-2016). He regularly collaborates with various media groups, and periodically writes a column in daily newspaper El País.

~ END ~